

Tunisia is currently facing severe economic challenges, with the unemployment rate soaring above 15% and inflation rapidly eroding consumer purchasing power. The country's GDP growth has stalled, and key sectors like manufacturing and agriculture are struggling due to low investment and high operational costs.